

International school

Immunological Biotherapies: Concepts and Development

Organization

The program is organized in 1 module, which represents 27 hours in a week. Teaching classes will be in English in the form of recorded video conferences. Students and lecturers will have the opportunity to discuss on an open forum.

Teaching program 2019

June 17th to 21st

Condition of selection

This course is open to Master and PhD students, Post-doctoral fellows, Medical doctors, Pharmacists, Dentists, Veterinarians, Engineers.

No registration fees unless continuous formation.

Location

Paris, Sorbonne Université
New York, Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai
Sao Paulo, Universidade de São Paulo

Organizers

Miriam MERAD, Professor of Oncological Science and of Medicine at the Icahn School of Medicine at Mount Sinai, New York
Roger CHAMMAS, Professor of Oncology (FM/USP), Universidade de São Paulo
François M. LEMOINE, Professor of Immunology, Sorbonne Université in Paris

Contact

rachel.fabre@sorbonne-universite.fr

Topics

Oncology, Chronic Inflammation, Infectious Diseases, T Cells, Dendritic Cells, Stem Cells, Antibodies, Cytokines and Chemokines, Genetic and Cellular Vaccines, CRISPR, CPI.

